The Ford Motor company. Detroit. has begun to manufacture its own plate glass and already has in opera-tion the first modern glass house ever equipped especially to make glass for automobiles. As is customary when taking over the manufacture of a new product. Ford has applied his own principles of production, and, as a consequence, the methods and machinery used in bankers and oil men the methods and machinery used in of the Treasury de la making Ford glass are a radical departure from established practice. The Ford continuous conveyor system features the operations so that from the time the glass leaves the furnace unup no official questions til it becames a polished windshield.

It is always moving.

Glass making, when viewed in the Ford plant, laaks to be very simple. The raw materials are introduced into the furnace where they become a molten mass. Drawn from the furnace in a semi-liquid state the riams passed under a roller, which sives it width and thickness and on to a it width and thickness and on to a moving conveyor. This carries it for 464 feet through a gradually cooling furnace. At the end it is cut and placed on another conveyor which carries it through the grinding and polishing, after which it is ready for

This adds a new link to the fast growing chain of Ford industries, which are being established and ex-panded from time to time in line with the Ford policy to achieve complete independence of outside material sources in manufacturing Ford products, and at the same time are the means by which Ford is enabled to use in the production of motor cars trucks and tractors material of un-usually high quality and sell them at the famous Ford price.
